Correspondence and consignments of cotton, wool, hides and the products of the country solicited and applied to.

THOMAS H. MURRAY.

IN BRIEF.

Go to Dashwood & King for Harper's "Borodentine," the finest tooth lotion in the market.

Give Harper's fragrant "Borodentine" for the teeth a trial. For sale by Dashwood & King.

Try Harper's Borodentine tooth lotion; it just takes the cake. Sold by Dashwood & King.

Don't forget that Spencer & Tucker's is the place to buy fresh compressed yeast.

Messrs. Barnett & Co. shipped a hundred bales of cotton to Liverpool yesterday.

E. A. Jacobs late a member of the firm of Tomlinson & Co., has opened up a nice stock of groceries on Houston street.

More light on the platform at the Union depot would be hailed with delight by the traveling public.

A diamond pin, ear drops and cluster ring, worth the handsome sum of $2,000 are among the costly sets of jewelry at Howard Tully's.

Cotton begins to make its appearance in the market. A number of wagon loads have been sold on the square this week.

Officer Coker yesterday arrested a negro named Powell for assaulting an Italian sewer hand with a stone. He was locked up.

Sheriff Maddox was presented with a handsome pistol-belt by Mr. L. E. Flanagan yesterday. The belt has an attachment by which the holster is rendered useless. It was much admired by those who saw it.

The arrival of Maj. Penn has done away affected the price of groceries at Turner & McClure's, on the contrary they have just received a large shipment of fresh country butter and yellow-legged chickens and continue to fill orders as promptly as in the past.

On yesterday Messrs. Armentrout & Thurmond brought in about eighty beehives of extra heavy weight and in very fine condition. Their meat market is constantly supplied with the finest meat to be had in the city, and they propose to sell to their customers for less money than any dealer in the market.

Strange as it may seem the arrival of Maj. Penn has not in the least affected the price of groceries and country produce at Turner & McClure's, on the contrary they have just received a large shipment of fresh country butter and yellow-legged chickens and will continue to fill orders as promptly as in the past.

The Fort Worth foundry and machine shop have been crowded with work ever since they started. The proprietors, Messrs. Chollar, Moore & Ryan, have added more ground and are now erecting an iron and brass foundry, and we will soon see the smoke pouring from the cupolas. This is a great help to Fort Worth and the machine men of the country.

OLD GOVERNMENT JAVA.

Another Novelty at Temple Place.

David Nicholson, one of the largest importers and dealers in fine teas, wines and condiments in the city of St. Louis, has for a number of years enjoyed the reputation of giving to the public foreign and domestic goods of standard quality only. The name and trade mark of this popular house has ever been considered a guarantee of excellence, and the handsome and attractive style in which their goods are put up has rendered them deservedly popular among the retail trade. Their career from the beginning has been a succession of surprises, and only a short time since when the opinion was gathering force that the ultimatum had been reached, that the importation of real fine goods for market had attained perfection, they surprised the trade anew by placing on the market a dollar package of the Blue Ribbon brand of Old Government Roasted Java coffee. It is needless to say that the advent of the Blue Ribbon package was hailed with delight. Coming from the popular house of David Nicholson, it was received on trust and rapidly won its way to public favor. For the production of this standard article they have adopted a high grade of genuine unimixed Padana Java coffee, insuring the consumer unvarying quality and superior excellence combined. T. P. Pendery, proprietor of the famous Temple Place fancy grocery, has the exclusive agency for the city, and this we regard as additional evidence that the Blue Ribbon brand stands pre-eminently above any brand of roasted coffee now on the market. Mr. Pendery has arranged to handle this Blue Ribbon in quantities and give special rates to the trade.

Findley, Anderson & Co.

In the want column will be found the advertisement of Findley, Anderson & Co., cotton buyers for account of New England mills. They now have large orders for shipment to Liverpool, Havre, Bremen, Hamburg and other European points, and are also in daily telegraphic communication with some of the largest mills in the New England states and Canada. Also from New York, New Orleans, Galveston and San Francisco. This firm which was organized about three years ago have devoted their entire time and attention to the working up these direct orders for cotton and their success warrants us in saying that no better orders are controlled by any other firm in Texas. They do strictly an order business and do not speculate at the expense of their friends for a place in the market. Dealers in cotton in tributary markets would do well to correspond with this firm.

Centrell & Dillard have secured the services of A. Mueller, a talented young artist formerly with the Daeber watch case factory at Cincinnati, and are now prepared to do all kinds of plain and fancy engraving such as monograms, landscapes, lettering, or any special designs for medals, etc.

A WORD IN SEASON.

In view of the warm weather we are experiencing, anything on the subject of thin clothing and underwear may be aptly perused. "A word in season" is always worth listening to.

Our reasonable word takes the form of advice. It is this: Come and see what we can do for you in the matter of supplying your requirements. You run no risk of having shelf-worn goods thrust on you for new ones. Our stock is all of this year's manufacture, and designed in accordance with the style for the season.

In the matter of PRICE we are enabled by our facilities and large sales to undersell all competitors. We do not claim to sell a $20 suit for half that sum, but we do claim to sell the same quality and style of suit for less money than it can be bought elsewhere.

We especially ask all who patronize a Merchant Tailor to give this department of our business a trial.

NEW LIVERY STABLE.

R. L. Turner the Live Livery Man of the City Still in the Front Rank.

R. L. Turner has just purchased the large brick stable, (his old stand) on the corner of Seventh and Houston streets and will at once begin the work of enlarging it to double its present capacity. Everything has been arranged for the early completion of the work and the new stable will be occupied at the first of October. In the mean time Mr. Turner will make his headquarters at the Maddox old stand, near the opera-house where the best teams in the city are subject to order. Through courtesy, Mr. Fogg has consented to take charge of part Mr. Turner's teams for the present on the North side of the public square.

Centrell & Dillard design and make new jewelry to order, repairing fine watches and jewelry a specialty.

DAVID DAVIS.

A Visit to the Ethereal Statesman of Illinois, With a Hidden Meaning.

(Robert J. Burdette.)

In company with Mr. Henry Waterson I made one more political pilgrimage, this time to the beautiful home of Judge David Davis, in Bloomington, Ill. I had been prepared, by Henry's vivid descriptive powers, for meeting a man of remarkable physique, but I must confess my astonishment when, in answer to a ring, Mr. Davis himself came creeping through the key-hole to welcome us.

"If a way I have," he said, laughing, "when I am in too much haste to unlock the door."

The day was too beautiful to desert for the parlors, so we wandered about the grounds where grew, I think, the most beautiful hedges in Illinois. Under the shade of a tree we paused, and as Mr. Davis, motioning Henry and myself to seats on a cast-iron lawn settee, seated himself carefully on a swaying spray of purple hearted fuchsia, I had leisure to observe him.

A slender man only redeemed from emaciation by the perfect symmetry of his limbs and body, with fair, curling hair that drooped about his delicate shoulders like the escaping tendrils of a wayward vine, a faint flush just tinting his boyish cheeks, he produced upon me an impression of ethereal lightness, that I half wondered if the fragile, spirituelle creature before me were really mortal, or the spirit of the flower which he had made his resting place. You could not call him effeminate, for his figure has not even the robust development of a healthy woman. He does not appear weak or in ill health. He is a visible Ariel, belonging to the realms of the air as much as the gaudy butterfly which he left our side to chase, and which moved with a wing scarce less light and noiseless than the flying feet of the graceful statesman who pursued him.

As we came away I turned to watch him swiftly climbing a slender, swaying tree to peep into a nest of wrens far out on a slender branch and thinking over our conversation with this effervescent rippling young creature, I said to my companion:

"Henry, I think this is absurd. The people of the United States do not want a boy, a child who chases butterflies and climbs to look into birds' nests, a boy who walks on his hands and turns summersaults in the parlor for a president.

"Look here," said Henry, suddenly looking so supernaturally wise I feared he had a rush of brains to the head. "Look here, there is a hidden meaning to all this tree climbing and butterfly chasing business and I am surprised that you newspaper men haven't found it out."

Commercial.

This morning's report shows an advance of 1-4c on cotton with increased interest among local buyers. Bacon and lard is quoted up this morning and very firm at the advanced figures. Country produce is still in good demand and sells readily at market quotations.

Big Land Trade.

The R. E. S. Land Company of this city yesterday purchased 40,000 acres of land in Wheeler county, for which they paid over $70,000. It is all in one block and will be used as a range for their large herd of cattle.
